

Consy Malasoma: Feng Shui

The Bagua:

Fame and Reputation: This area serves to enhance and establish yourself in the community, achieve greater fame, and living up to your full potential. The trigram Li represents this area and the element Fire using the colors red or purple can be added.

Love and Relationships: This area serves to improve opening up to receive love as well as to attract your life mate. This can be used to improve all relationships in one's life and to feel loving. The trigram Kun represents love and the element of Earth and the colors gold and yellow and even white and pink work well here.

Creativity and Children: This area is used to overcome creative blocks, to assist in fertility problems or having children and even improving relationships with children. The trigram Ken represents joy and the element of Metal using pastel colors and white works well in this area.

Helpful People and Travel: Attracting customers, clients, business partners and associates, spiritual guides, mentors or someone wise to guide you; creating a team, network or support system, and increasing your travel. The trigram Chien represents power, strength and endurance. This is a Metal element placement so whites, pastel colors and things made of metal work well here.

Career: This is the area for achieving success, or making career changes. The trigram Kan represents work that will assist you in receiving more joy from your efforts. The Water element, and the colors dark blue and black can be used to improve the energy for this area.

Knowledge and Self-Cultivation: This is the area to create inner serenity and a peaceful, harmonious life. This is the area to develop the ability to learn, share knowledge and enhance self-improvement and mental health. The trigram Ken represents stillness and contemplation. The Earth element and the gold colors of Nature work well for this area.

Health and Family: This area serves to honor your ancestors and understanding your past in order to move forward. This area also represents your family and personal health issues. The Wood element and the colors blue and green and a floral theme enhance this area.

Wealth & Finances: This is the area to manifest wealth and good fortune. It may also represent good fortune among friends. The trigram Sun represents the wind. It is supported by the Wood and Fire elements by using colors such as purples, reds or greens.

Wholeness/Center: The center of the home or office is called the Tai Chi and connects all the outlying trigrams or area of the Bagua (8 sides). The element here is Earth and is well represented by using landscapes or photos showing upward growth.